Clearwater Analytics Taps Kenneth Brady as Strategic Advisor

Data management and advanced analytics expert brings 30 years in institutional finance experience

BOISE, Idaho — October 13, 2020 — Clearwater Analytics, the leading SaaS solution for investment data aggregation, reconciliation, accounting, and reporting, today announced that Kenneth Brady has joined the company as a strategic advisor to support the continued development of insurance and asset management industry solutions and services.

Kenneth brings extensive expertise in enterprise data management and advanced analytics to Clearwater. Throughout his career, he has been instrumental in developing large-scale applications for asset management, private equity, wealth management, and capital markets organizations.

“Kenneth understands the unique and complex challenges facing the financial services industry like few in the business do, particularly from a technology perspective,” said Scott Erickson, Chief Operating Officer at Clearwater. “As an industry veteran who’s helped numerous organizations develop comprehensive enterprise data management strategies, our growing firm and our clients will benefit from his expertise.”

Before joining Clearwater, Kenneth oversaw OppenheimerFunds’ data management organization and led TPG Capital’s data architecture and business analytics team. Prior to that he held roles at UBS Wealth Management, overseeing advisor and wealth planning technology, and served as MF Global’s first Chief Data Officer.

At Clearwater, Kenneth will work closely with the team to further advance the firm’s enterprise data services and offerings. Clearwater currently reports on more than $4 trillion daily for organizations across these global financial industries.

“I’m excited to join the Clearwater team and help them continue to meet the complex needs of their sophisticated clients,” said Kenneth. “The firm continues to lead the industry with their technology and ability to help organizations make the most of their data. I look forward to getting started.”
